

LaTonia's Story

LaTonia's bright smile instantly warmed up the room on a freezing November day. She came to York Township Food Pantry to pick up groceries for herself and her three foster children.

She called the pantry a "saving grace" – she visits once a month, and is able to get everything she needs for her family. She can pick up food, feminine hygiene products, and healthcare items here.

"We wouldn't be okay without," she said.

Her two oldest children are on the autism spectrum, and have sensory difficulties when it comes to food. LaTonia is grateful for the variety of groceries she can pick up, and knows she can always get enough food to feed her kids.

"Being typical, my 16-year-old eats a lot," she said. "Thanks for giving us hope, especially around the holidays."
